TODAY'S ODDITY

MISKOLZ, Hungary (U P)—When neighbors, attracted by a loud explosion, rushed to the home of Joseph Szigeti, a 64-year-old miner who lives in the nearby village of Szuhakllos, they discovered that he had been killed by a stick of dynamite the fuse of which he had ignited after swallowing the dynamite itself, in order to end his financial troubles.

HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS GRADUATE AT EXERCISE

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

Carl Zamloch, manager of the Oakland Oaks, may be a magician, and may be able to pull rabbits out of his hat.

* * * * *

But, you can take the word of a red-headed baseball player in Richmond when he tells you that the "Iron Man" of the Odd Fellows baseball team would make Zamloch look like a piker.

* * * *

According to this baseball player, who, by the way, lost fifteen iron men on a game, tells us that "The Iron Man" went into the stands at the crucial moment of a game and emerged with a pinch hitter.

* * * *

That was all right with this red headed ball player of whom we speak.

* * * *

BUT — with two men on bases and the score tied,—the pinch hitter who was taken out of the air, as it were, hit a home run that won the contest.

* * * *

And with the home run went the red headed player's fifteen smackers.

* * * *

And also his temper.

* * * *

But he still has his sense of humor left.

* * * *

How his friends laughed when he sat down at the piano. But how their laughter turns to gasps of amazement when he played the Stein song.

* * * *

And he learned how to do it in ten easy lessons thru the mail.

* * * *

He stood in line with the rest of his class at the Post Office and received his diploma.

* * * *

Now he heads the alumni association of the Jarhard Correspondence school which meets twice a month at the post office.

* * * *

At the present time the association is planning to build a gymnasium addition to the postoffice for the pleasure of the undergraduates of the school.

Samoans Pledge Loyalty To King

APIA, British Samoa, June 4.—UP—In a reversal of their previous stand, the Somoan people today voiced their loyalty to the British King and to the New Zealand mandate government.

The occasion was the delayed celebration here of the birthday of King George.

The expression of loyalty was unexpected, because the Samoan people had been for some time past waging a passive resistance campaign striving for representative government and abolition of the mandate authority.

There had been some bloodshed and rioting during the political strife that accompanied the campaign, which was sponsored by the "Mau" or native political organization.

Yesterday 45 native officials called on the mandate administrator, S. S. Allen, and Chief Tautagaloa, spokesman, professed loyalty to the King in appreciation for what Great Britain has done for Samoa.

In contrast to recent demands for the status of a crown colony, the chieftan expressed hope that the Samoan government would remain a New Zealand mandate.

Following the speech, the attendant natives cheered the King and the administrator lustily.

POLICE HUNT MISSING MADMAN

IONIA, Mich., June 4.—UP—The brief fling of liberty ended, ten of the thirteen insane criminals who escaped from the State Hospital for the Criminally Insane here yesterday morning, tonight were back in their cells.

The remaining three, one of them a dangerous murderer, still were at large, however, and apparently had made good their escape from this section of the state. They are believed to be riding in an automobile which was stolen near here last night. It was reported they had passed through St. John's Mich., this morning.

With the capture of the majority of the madmen, the tension which gripped citizens lessened. Homes which were kept closed and bolted while it was known the maniacs were at large, were thrown open, and farmers who went about their chores yesterday with loaded shotguns handy, relaxed their vigilance.

Of the three men still at large, Henry Vaden, giant negro, is regarded as the most dangerous. Vaden, 30 years old, is 6 feet 6 inches tall, and powerfully built. He was convicted of murder in Detroit.

Inmates captured last night and today, proved exceptionally meek. Where officers had expected to be given a fight before the men surrendered, they offered little resistance.

RAIN STOPS FOREST FIRES

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, June 4.—UP—Drenching rain tonight had quenched disastrous forest fires which have raged unchecked for almost a week through thousands of acres of Canada's most valuable timber lands.

Vast areas of blackened trees were covered with clouds of steam while refugees, both human and animal, hovered about the outskirts of the ruined forests.

Incomplete estimates placed the damage at $500,000 with further loss expected when scouts penetrated the more isolated regions. Pulp wood and lumber stands were wiped out entirely while many square miles of young timber were damaged badly.

Bank Purchase Seen In North

PORTLAND, Ore., June 4.—UP—Confirmation of reports that the Giannini interests are negotiating for the purchase of the First National Bank of Portland and affiliated institutions were followed here today by rumors that Transamerica soon would take over the control of the Dexter Horton bank of Seattle.

However, W. H. Parsons, chairman of the board of the Dexter Horton bank, denied in Seattle the reports of the contemplated purchase.

It is known that Transamerica sometime ago obtained considerable stock in the Dexter Horton bank and the report of its contemplated acquisition coincides with one previously circulated that Giannini interests plan an invasion of the banking field of the entire Pacific coast.

The deal for the purchase of the First National bank here also involves the affiliated institutions of the Security Savings & Trust Company, the Bank of East Portland, and George W. Bates & Co., Brokers. The combined resources of these institutions is about $56,000,000.

HOOVER LAW ENFORCEMENT BILL PASSED BY HOUSE

WASHINGTON, June 4.—UP—A bill providing for U. S. court commission hearings in "petty offense" prohibition cases involving a gallon or less of liquor, designed to replace in part the grand jury and jury trial machinery was passed by the House today.

The vote was 218 to 170.

Most of the wets and some drys opposed the bill, which was heartily supported by President Hoover and his Wickersham crime commission.

New Procedure

This bill, proposed by the Hoover Wickersham commission and sponsored by Rep. Christopherson, Repn S. D., embodies the major part of a proposal to revolutionize federal court procedure in regard to prohibition. The other three bills, providing for waiver of jury trial in all criminal cases if desired, defining petty offenses as those involving a gallon of liquor or less, and specifically defining felonies as those punishable by more than one year, were passed by the House yesterday.

All four bills now go to the Senate, where their chance of early passage is regarded as slim due to the press of tariff and other business.

Two members of the judiciary committee, Chairman Graham and Rep. Bachmann, Repr., W. Va., waged a battle against the bill, but both supported the measure after an amendment was adopted which they contended would safeguard dry law defendants.

Pay Fixed

This amendment, proposed by Bachmann, requires a waiver of the present formal court hearing before the new machinery for a commissioner hearing can be put into action. This virtually gives the prisoner his choice of the two methods of procedure.

Another amendment as adopted providing that the federal judge involved shall fix the compensation of the commissioner who holds hearings, at any amount up to $5 each.

The bill in its final form provides that the commissioner can report the plea, evidence and make recommendations, but no analysis of the evidence. The federal judge will decide as to sentence, in the "petty offenses," the maximum being six months in jail without hard labor and $500 fine.

This is the second major proposal of the Hoover-Wickersham program to be passed by the House the first, the prohibition transfer bill, has been enacted into law, effective July 1.

ALL STANDARDS WIN VICTORY IN LEAGUE

The Mechanics very nearly won their game from the All-Standards in yesterday's Standard Oil Twilight league contest. But—they didn't.

One run was all that stood between them and a tie with the All-Standards. The final score was 7 to 6 in favor of the All Standards, thereby putting the victors in the lead of the league.

The score at the beginning of the last half of the last inning was, 7 to 1 in favor of the All-Standards. Lais, Muth, and Cullers scored for the All-Standards in the first. Lear, Wickesser and Jensen earned three more counters for the All-StSandards in the fourth, and Wickesser crossed home plate in the fifth. Soby had gained the lone run for the Mechanics.

But the Mechanics sluggers started a terrific hitting fest in the last of the seventh that almost proved fatal to the victorious All-Standards. Kogler walked, Soby singled, and Kersten doubled, Gregory fanned, and Carson went out Thorson to Lear, scoring Kogler. Pat O'Rourke walked, loading the bases. Big Bert Ellison came up to wield the hickory, and how he wielded that bat! His hard drive sailed far into the blue above the right field fence, and four Mechanics tapped home. But Bonham went out Wickesser to Lear.

The Barrel House and Refinery are scheduled to do the honors on the First street diamond this afternoon at five o'clock.

CUBS CONTINUE WINNING STREAK BEATING BRAVES

By UNITED PRESS

NATIONAL LEAGUE—

Chicago's crippled Cubs counted out of the National league pennant race because of the loss of Pitcher Hal Carlson and Infielder Rogers Hornsby, continued their heavy hitting Wednesday, defeating the Boston Braves, 18 to 10, for their seventh consecutive victory and advanced to within two games of the league leading Brooklyn Robins.

Kiki Cuyler and Riggs Stephenson led the attack, making half of the Cubs' 20 hits.

A smashing six-run assault in the first inning enabled the New York Giants to defeat Cincinnati, 8 to 5. The first six Giants batters hit safely, Ott and O'Farrell climaxing the onslaught with successive home runs.

Ray Benge let the St. Louis Cardinals down with four hits and the Philadelphia Phillies scored a 2 to 1 victory. Tommy Thevenow drove in the winning run for the Phils when he singled with the bases filled in the third.

The Pittsburgh Pirates took a victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers by a score of 12 to 6 in a loosely played game.

AMERICAN LEAGUE—

Philadelphia nosed out a 4 to 3 victory over St. Louis and held their one-game advantage over the second place Washington Senators.

George Earnshaw held the Browns to six hits but allowed two runs in the eight innings and was replaced by the veteran Quinn. The defeat was the ninth of the season for Sam Gray.

Washington rallied in the tenth to score three runs, after tossing off a six-run lead, and defeated Detroit, 11 to 8. The Tigers came from behind to tie the score at 8-all in the ninth scoring six runs in the seventh, eighth and ninth, but Whitehill weakened in the tenth.

Johnny Kerr's homer into the left field stands with two out in the tenth inning gave the Chicago White Sox an 8 to 7 victory over the New York Yankees. Babe Ruth's eighteenth home run of the season with two mates on base, tied the score in the seventh and sent the game into overtime.

The homer put Ruth three days ahead of his schedule in 1927, when he set the major league record of 60 homers for the season.

Scarritt's single, scoring Reeves gave Boston a 10-inning, 5 to 4 victory over the Cleveland Indians. Ferrell held an edge over big Ed Morris in a pitching duel.

58 Year Old Bill, Still Good

TURNERS FALLS, Mass.— The average life of a bank note is supposed to be something like one year. Though nearly 58 years old, the bill was in good condition.

MISSIONS, OAKS WIN COAST GAMES

SAN FRANCISCO, June 4.—UP—Ninth inning rallies decided two games of the Pacific Coast league today, reduced the advantage of the league-leading Sacramento Senators over Los Angeles to one game and a half, and sent Oakland into a tie with San Francisco's Seals for third place.

The Angels beat Hollywood, 4 to 3, by scoring one run in the last of the ninth. The Sheiks had tied the count with three runs in the first of the ninth.

After coming from behind to tie the score in the eighth, the Seals let the San Francisco Missions score once in the ninth and win, 8 to 7.

An early lead enabled the Portland Beavers to beat Sacramento 6 to 4. The first place club used three pitchers.

With eight runs in the eighth inning to break a tie, Oakland beat Seattle, 12 to 3.

Life Easier For Lean Lifeguards

LOS ANGELES.—Seeking to make life easier for the lean bronzed lifeguards, the public beach co-ordination committee has proposed a law dictating how far a swimmer may venture into the ocean.

Silver, Rubber, Hit New Low On Stock Mart

NEW WYORK, June 4.—UP—Moderate improvement in the stock market, where most of yesterday's losses were recovered, was overshadowed today by renewed weakness in various commodity markets. Silver, rubber and silk prices all broke to new record low levels and weakness developed in grains, cotton, coffee, sugar and cottonseed oil.

Speculative attention in the stock market was at a low ebb and most of today's activity was attributed to buying by professional operators with large short interests outstanding.

Nevertheless, a fairly uniform upward trend was maintained thru the greater part of the session after prices had dipped at the opening of an accumulation of overnight selling orders. Dealings were the smallest since January 13, only 1,694,020 shares changing hands, against 1,750,450 shares in the previous session.

Petroleum shares and several special issues furnished the principal feature in today's trading. Sinclair and Houston oil developed unusual activity at sharply higher prices, while Petroleum corporation of America, a newcomer on the board, rose sharply. J. I. Case closed 9 points higher after an early 12 point rise and Foster wheeler continued its advance into new high territory. Unusual activity also continued in the United Cigar StSores group, most of these shares selling at or near their high levels of the year.

Rails and utilities held close to their previous closing levels, while pivotal shares like Steel common, American Can, Westinghouse Electric, General Electric and General Motors made small progress on the up-side.

There was little in the news to affect price movements, while the renewed weakness in commodities failed to have any visible influence on stocks. Extreme hotweather was also a factor in the dullness of the market, many traders closing shop for the time being.

Eastern selling of silver broke the price to 34 cents an ounce, off 2 3-8 cents; rubber broke on commission house selling, while cotton sold off on bearish statistics and unfavorable weather. Grains broke on professional selling. Other commodities sold off in sympathy.

RAGS WANTED

MILLER TELLS OF INDIAN SITUATION

By WEBB MILLER
United Press Staff Correspondent
World Copyright, 1930 by U. P.

SIMLA, India, June 4.—UP—This cool, tranquil summer seat of the government of India, perched 7000 feet on the foothills of the Himalayas away from the intolerable heat of the Ganges plains, seems an appropriate place for me to review my impressions of the Indian independence campaign.

During three weeks in India I have had interviews and conversations with leaders of every shade of opinion. They included such men as Sir Chimanlal Stevalvad, a Liberal leader; Sir Tej Sapru, leader of the All-Indian Libera's' federation; Mohamed Ali of the Khalifate organization of Moslul, and Sir Rao Bahadur Patro of Madras, all hitherto staunch supporters of the British empire.

They also included such leaders of the Indian Nationalist congress as V. J. Patel, former president of the legislative assembly; Satish Chandra Das Gupta, president of the Bengal committee of civil disobedience at Calcutta, Jamashed Shoksy, congress leader at Bombay, and R. K. Sidva, head of the congress organization at Karachi. The latter two have since been arrested and are serving nine months sentences for their part in the independence drive.

The concensus of opinion of these men of widely varying schools of political thought is as follows:

That the government is confronted with the most difficult situation in India since the great mutiny of 1857.

That the political agitation has reached a comparatively greater depth than the outbreaks of 1920 and 1921.

That the present movement is based on definite national and racial aspirations toward self government which cannot be indefinitely suppressed by force.

The majority of these leaders favor peaceful negotiations with the British government regarding India's future status, but all agree on one point: That unless the definite objective of the proposed round table conference next fall between British and Indian delegates is a form of dominion status, the conference will collapse.

NEW SONG HITS IN FILM HERE

Eight new musical numbers may be heard in "The Rogue Song" Metro Goldwyn Mayer's latest musical talking picture starring Lawrence Tibbett, which closes tonight at the Fox-California theater.

The numbers were written by Franz Lehar, composer of "The Merry Widow" and Herbert Stothart with lyrics by Clifford Grey. Tibbett, internationally known Metropolitan opera star, sings "Once in the Georgian Hills" "To Live, To Love" "When I'm Looking At You" and "Little White Dove." Elsa Alsen, dramatic soprano, sings "The Shame Cry" with a women's chorus, while "The Bandit Chorus" is sung by a large male chorus. The music ranges from songs of operatic proportions to simple love ballads.

Tibbett, who sees a new future for opera on the screen where he believes it can be adapted to popular appeal, thinks that the musical hits of 'The Rogue Song" will undoubtedly fill that rare niche in which they will prove satisfactory to highbrow musical critics and public alike.

"I feel certain that these songs will prove song hits of a high class ranking with the music, say of Cadman, or Lemare's "Andante" or Dvoraks' "New World Symphony" he stated recently. "Those compositions immediately took to the public fancy when they were given a popular hearing, and this despite the fact that they are characterized by the strictest musical principles rather than by popular taste."

The new picture is a vivid drama of Russia and the Caucasus Mountains, being filmed in natural colors with Tibbett as a singing Russian Robin Hood. Catherine Dale Owen, Wallace Macdonald, Judith Vosselli and others of note are among the players.

Also on the program is a Disney cartoon entitled "Night." It's a scream.

BUSTER KEATON IN LAUGH HIT FILM HERE

Screen enthusiasts who have wondered what the inside of a Hollywood studio looks like and how directors act when stars fail to do the right thing, will be able to satisfy their curiosity when Metro Goldwyn Mayer presents its all-star talking comedy "Free and Easy" tomorrow and Saturday at the Fox-California theater.

For this picture takes the moviegoer inside the studio gates and permits him to see and hear such players as Buster Keaton, Anita Page Trixie Friganza, Robert Montgomery, William Haines, Dorothy Sebastian, Karl Dane, John Miljan, Gwen Lee, William Collier, Sr., Edgar Dearing, Marion Shilling and Lottice Howell while directors who play "themselves" include Lionel Barrymore, Fred Niblo David Burton and Cecil B. De Mille.

Opportunity for the appearance of this miscellany of stars, players and directors was made possible by the plot of the comedy which depicts the trials and tribulations of a Kansas beauty-prize winner who together with her mother and her would-be manager attempts to storm the portals of Hollywood's film industry.

Although almost unsurmountable obstacles are put in their way, the trio do finally "crash the gates" and find themselves in the midst of studio activities and picture making. Lionel Barrymore is seen directing Miljan and Gwen Lee in a bedroom melodrama; Niblo tears his hair directing a costume romance and a scene in which Dorothy Sebastian and Karl Dane are playing, is ruined when a charge of dynamite is set off at an inopportune moment. The filming of an actual Hollywood opening gives William Haines and a number of other celebrities a chance to make their bow while glimpses of studio executive conferences offer still further opportunities for the appearance of important screen personages.

Also on the program is Charlie Chase in "Fifty Million Husbands."

Street Girl To Be Shown Here Tonight

Local audiences tonight will see tart drama, rollicking comedy and gay music successful'y combined when "Street Girl" Radio Pictures' enjoyable musical drama opened at the Richmond theater. It was not the first time Hollywood has tried to unite the three on the talking screen, but it was the first time this reviewer has seen it done in such an intelligent and convincing manner.

"Street Girl" will appeal to almost any type of audience. It has everything that goes to make up the perfect entertainment. Betty Compson capably plays the lead as an appealing little violinist and entertainer in a New York East Side cafe. She really plays the violin and does it most satisfactorily.

One of the high spots of the show is the comedy furnished by probably the best combination of comics ever presented in a picture. Jack Oakie, Ned Sparks and Joseph Cawthorn, all familiar to musical comedy and motion picture audiences, got every laugh possible from Jane Murfin's sparkling dialogue.

"Street Girl" presents four of the most intriguing musical numbers which have come to town this year. "My Dream Memory" a be-witching waltz, featured in Miss Compson's violin numbers; "Lovable and Sweet" "Prince of Good Fellows" and "Broken Up Tune" featured by a fast-stepping chorus in the night club sequences, are marked as instantaneous hits.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."
Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

GOLDEN DAWN

by MARC O'FARRELL

Copyright 1930. Warner Bros. Pictures Inc.
This story is based on Warner Bros. Vitaphone production of the play by Otto Harbach and Oscar Hammerstein II.

SYNOPSIS

Fair-skinned Dawn, mystery girl, has infuriated the black tribe, in the territory of the British East African Protectorate, because, as the mystic wife of the black god Malunghu, she has failed in diverting the drought. She is really a white girl, not black, as the natives suppose. Her sweetheart, Tom Allen, knows the secret: he learned it too late, just as he was banished to England, through a ruse of Shep Keyes, whip-bully, who has designs on Dawn. Now the natives, in an ugly mood, plan to burn Dawn alive for her ineffectiveness. Tom, back in British service, means to save her at any cost. The soldiery refuse to let the blacks burn Dawn. Shep has a scheme to outwit them.

INSTALLMENT THIRTY

Dawn recalled a precept of the native religion. "But all sacrifices must be made at the Hill of Skulls."

"Or else," Shep reminded her, "at de place where de sin was done." He tried to infuse his tones with solemnity the better to impress her. "Dat's de place where you was when Tom Allen whipped me. Tom Allen won't be dere tomorrow night."

Unrestrained sobbing again wracked the girl's body. She could not hope for compassion from Shep.

"Dey am takin' de wood, piece by piece, to de Place o' de White Moon, where you was," he went on mercilessly. "Where you was—dat night—wit' Tom."

Gleefully he noted the effect of his words. "But," he whispered,

She recoiled in horror bending over her quivering body, "Shep Keyes can save you. And he will."

Quickly she lifted her face to him, hopefully, imploringly. Her manner became supplicating with the terrible sincerity of only those who seek to escape peril.

"I'll take you to Mombassa," continued Shep exultantly, "just you and me alone—in de jungle—tonight?"

She recoiled from him in horror. "Never. I'll be true to my promise to Tom! I hate you more than ever, Shep Keyes."

"And you think Tom Allen loves you, huh. If he does, why did he come here and go away again yesterday?"

"Lies of yours, Shep Keyes!" she cried.

Hasmali entered, and looked questioningly at Shep.

"I just came to pray wit' Dawn," Shep explained.

"Maybe Malunghu will hear his bride," said Hasmali gravely, "if she is his bride."

"Tell me, Hasmali," said Dawn, "was that English soldier, Tom Allen, here?"

Hasmali nodded. "He was here," he said, "but he is gone back to Mombase. He will never return."

The orderly's announcement that Captain Tom Allen was calling gave Colonel Judson considerable pause. Perhaps there had been some foundation for Shep's uneasiness after all. If, as Shep insisted, Tom had returned to snatch Dawn from the natives, things would be considerably complicated. Certainly, any Englishman, still in uniform, who would absent himself from the wars would raise a lively battle to save the life of the woman he loved.

"Are you sure he is in uniform?" the Colonel again asked of the orderly.

"Undeniably, sir," returned the orderly. "He's a captain of infantry."

The Colonel expressed his irritation in a brief grunt. Well, he decided finally, he would see him, being careful to shade his cordiality with discretion. "Tell him to come right in," he boomed, in tones loud enough for Tom to hear, "and welcome."

With every indication of delight Colonel Judson shook hands with Tom, and urged him to be seated. Tom immediately liked his bluff fellow Britisher. But, familiar with war-time manners of ranking officers, he was aware that the Colonel's hearty welcome was no evidence of sympathy for his cause.

"It is most kind of you to receive me, sir," he said.

"Not at all," deprecated the Colonel. "As a matter of fact, I'm really glad to see what you look like. You are a much talked of man, Captain Allen."

"Favorably, I hope," returned Tom.

"By those whose opinions matter—invariably. And that includes some of our gallant enemy, Captain," said Judson. "Of course, a man of the courage and spirit you are reputed to possess must make enemies. Even in so miserable an acre as this one."

"At all events," said Tom, "I hope I am welcome."

"More than that," said the Colonel proffering him cigar. "These frightful weeds," he apologized, "are bad enough under the best of conditions, but in this arid side street of civilization they become dangerously inflammable. Be careful of them."

Laughing, Tom accepted the proffered cigar. Lighting it, he decided that the Colonel was by no means given to overstatement. The weed was all but unbearable, but he smoked on bravely.

"The drought has occasioned much suffering," he ventured.

Slowly the commander nodded. "It's ghastly," he pronounced. "You know, Captain, we may even need you here."

Tom disillusioned him quickly. "Perhaps," he suggested, "it would be well to acquaint you with the nature of my visit here—and its purpose."

So pleasant had Colonel Judson found this exchange of perfunctory remarks with Tom he was reluctant to settle so soon into the real business at hand. As he knew, he would be forced into assuming his rank of superior officer, and it was much more agreeable acting as Tom's host. Nevertheless, he meant to exercise his full authority.

"I have been told the reason for your coming here," he said slowly. His expression became grave. "I truly hope I have been misinformed."

Tom, too, felt awkward. Determined as he was that Dawn should not die, he was further resolved that he should abide by all the commander's edicts, however discouraging to his plans.

"Of course," he said, "I am not aware of what information has come to you. I don't doubt that you have been told correctly, but it seems to me that it would be well if I set forth my purpose as briefly and honestly as possible."

Judson nodded his assent.

"Well," Tom continued, "I am on leave and have come to take a girl named Dawn back with me to England."

Judson sat silently for several seconds. Outwardly he was calm, almost indifferent, but inwardly he was troubled. However, he trusted his rank would lend the necessary power to his words.

He shook his head in disparagement of Tom's plan. "Such an act," he announced with crisp authority, "on your part would start an uprising. My small force would be no match against a frenzied multitude of superstitious blacks."

The finality of his tones suggested that further argument on Tom's part would be unlikely to produce satisfactory results. But Tom was privileged to advance such information as might lead the Colonel to modify his decision. Unconsciously he fell into the precise military manner of the Colonel.

"It is possible, sir," he began, "that certain facts regarding the parentage of the girl in question have not come to your attention."

"Such as what?" suggested Judson.

"I have ample reason," returned Tom, "to believe that Dawn is white!"

Judson looked astonished. He admitted that he had no knowledge of such a fact. He inquired, "Is your evidence of such a character as to be valid in court?"

Tom was forced to admit that it was not. Briefly he informed the Colonel of the circumstances through which he had gained his information. He detailed the conversation he had overheard between Shep and Mooda, and also described Shep's confession to him made just before his deportation to England.

"But you see," he finished, "it is possible to prove my statements. This woman who calls herself Dawn's mother is able to verify them."

The Colonel's reply readily shattered Tom's hope of drawing any supportable evidence from Mooda. "Mooda is no longer here in the settlement," said Judson. "She left hastily and mysteriously for Mombasa some time ago. I received a report at the time of her departure."

"In that case," said Tom, "we can talk with Shep Keyes. He can clear up everything promptly."

"If I were you," suggested Judson, "I shouldn't entertain any hope of help from that black devil. He hates all white men and, as nearly as I can learn, he hates you above all other white men."

JOHNSON HITS AT NAVAL PACT

WASHINGTON, June 4.—UP—Senator Johnson struck again today at secrecy surrounding negotiations preliminary to the London conference with a demand for additional documents exchanged between the American and British governments.

The Californian's first request for documents reached the State Department today and his second will be received tomorrow. Johnson is anxious to determine the time and circumstances surrounding abandonment of the navy general board's naval program which was the policy of the government from 1928 until August or September, 1929.

Secretary of State Stimson conferred with President Hoover today regarding Johnson's first request but refused to announce his plans after the White House conference. The Navy department announced no contracts for authorized warship construction would be let until the Senate acts on the treaty.

This policy will affect two 10,000-ton cruisers, two submarines and an aircraft carrier whose construction in 1930 was authorized by Congress.

Senator Vandenberg, of Michigan, one of the group of Hoover Republicans in the Senate, visited the president today and discussed the treaty but refused to reveal the trend of the conversation.

Vandenberg is a member of the foreign relations committee.

Chairman Borah said the foreign relations committee probably would meet in executive session the latter part of the week. He expected the documents requestd by Johnson would b received by then. Acting Secretary of State Cotton intimated today that Johnson would be given any specific documents for which he asked.

There was some discussion among treaty opponents today of blocking Hoover's special treaty session call bo voting to recess late this month until November. Borah and others scouted the idea, explaining the anti-treaty group does not possess the votes necessary to override the president's desire for early consideration of the treaty.

City Engineer Of El Cerrito Tells Of Fees

OAKLAND, June 4. — District Attorney Earl Warren today drew admissions from Ross Calfee, El Cerrito city engineer, that he had failed to properly advise the El Cerrito city council regarding a street paving job, at a session of the paving graft trial now being conducted here. Harry Lesser, secretary-treasurer of the California Construction company; A. A. Horwege, his superintendent and James Austin, his foreman, are defendants in the trial, all of them charged with bribery and conspiracy to bribe.

Calfee also admitted that an ordinance passed by the El Cerrito city council authorizing him to prepare plans and specifications for the job had been drafted by him in his own office. He had previously admitted receiving from the paving company $22,489.32 for his services in this respect.

Warren asked Calfee is he had paid one per cent of the contract price, or one-sixth of the fee to the attorney for Lesser.

Calfee replied he did not know who Lesser's attorney was, but he had paid Carlson for legal work.

During the trial, Mrs. Flora Bowman, Mrs. Grace McCarthy and Mrs. Evelyn Heshey, all of El Cerrito testified they had never seen paving inspectors intoxicated, and that the work had appeared to be excellent.

Pittsburg To Get Brickworks

PITTSBURG, June 4.—Granting a permit to the Southern Pacific company to cross the county highway near Pittsburg, with a spur track extending to a point two miles from the city, is accepted here as confirmation of the reported plans of the Stockton Fire Brick company to locate a plant here. It is anticipated that about 75 men will be employed at the new industry.

VIENNA.—To the collection of lost articles held by the Vienna police recently was added a human ear. This ear, found by a policeman on duty in City Hall park, is believed to have been the property of some careless medical student.

STILL OWNER TELLS OF 'PULL'

MARTINEZ, June 4. — George Evovich, Oakley rancher, who was today sentenced to serve from one to five years in San Quentin on charges of operating a still, threw a figurative bombshell into the courtroom when he made the statement that his cousin, the late George Evovich, Jr., of Oakland, had said there was "no danger of arrest in Contra Costa county" and "he had things fixed," and "had a pull."

To questioning by Superior Judge A. B. McKenzie, Evovich declared he did not know with whom his cousin "had the pull" nor what officials might be involved.

The only information District Attorney A. B. Tinning was able to elicit from Evovich, was that he had been told to look out for federal agents and that things were "fixed" in the county.

Evovich pleaded guilty to the charge of operating a still and asked for probation, which was resisted by Tinning.

PLANS LAID FOR CURRY CAMPAIGN

Plans for a campaign for the renomination of Congressman Charles F. Curry were made at a meeting of the chairman of the Republic county central committee of the six counties in the third congressional district at Sacramento to recently.

Although Congressman Curry is detained in Washington by the sessions of Congress his nominating petition was filed in Sacramento by the Republican committee.

Although no opposition to Congressman Curry is anticipated, a preliminary campaign committee of 10 was named, with John F. Galvin of Richmond appointed to represent Contra Costa county.

An unusual situation, and one indicating the high esteem in which Congressman Curry is held was evidenced by the fact that probably for the first time in the history of the state, the Democratic county committee itself took out and filed a nominating petition on its ticket for a Republican.

Local Couple May Be Married Twice In Mixup

The probability of being married twice, to make the wedding ceremony legal, was today faced by William J. Prater, Richmond photographer, and his bride, the former Miss Ellen Lunceford of Utah.

The couple obtained a marriage license in Alameda county but came to Richmond, in Contra Costa county for the wedding nuptials. They were married by C. M. Dewsnup, an elder in the church of the Latter Day Saints, and no one noticed the marriage was not occuring in the same county the license was issued in.

The marriage license clerk declared that if the marriage was not held in the same county the licenes was obtained in, the marriage was invalid, so today the couple is making efforts to remedy the mistake.

STORMS SLOW SPEED OF ZEP

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, June 5.—UP—The Graf Zeppelin's arrival at Seville will probably be delayed until late this afternoon a radio message from the ship said at one a. m. this morning.

The message said bad weather off southern Spain had caused the delay.

The Grafs' position at the time the radio was sent was given as 38 north and 18.30 west.

That would place the dirigible about 600 miles west of Seville.

HEAVY RAINS SLOWS ZEPPELIN

SEVILLE, June 5 (Thursday)—Slowed down by heavy rains off the coast of Spain, the Graf Zeppelin was moving over the Atlantic toward Seville early today at a retarded speed and was not expected to reach here until late in the afternoon.

The delay and the downpour at Seville lessened the interest in the arrival of the giant air liner here.

Radio reports on the dirigible from Germany said the Graf at one a. m. was at a position about 600 miles west of Seville. The message said bad weather had slowed her speed and that the arrival at Seville might not be possible until as late as six p. m.
